- A May 7th DOF Fiscal Update projected a $41 billion decline in revenues by the end of 2020-21 and a $13 billion increase in health and human services costs and other pandemic-related expenditures.
- The result is a projected budget shortfall of $54 billion, compared with the Governor's January budget proposal.
- Uncertainty in state and local revenues
  - Tax revenues delayed until July 15
- By Governor's estimation, the "big three" taxes will be down from January estimates by:
  - 27.2% for the Sales and Use Tax
  - 25.5% for the Personal Income Tax
  - 22.7% for the Corporation Tax

CCC Capital Outlay Proposals

- The Governor provides $223.1 million in capital outlay funding from Proposition 51, approved by voters in 2016.
- The funding is to support the construction phase for 15 continuing projects ($194.7 million) and the preliminary plans and working drawings phases for 25 new projects ($28.4 million)

Impact on Community Colleges

- Decrease in Overall Funding of $1.5 billion compared to January Proposed Budget.
- For comparison, the Great Recession which devastated the community college system, cut $1.5 billion in budget cuts between 2007–08 and 2011–12 (five years).
- As the lowest-funded education system yet most consequential for equity and access, state leaders should recognize that doing more with less reaches a breaking point.

Requirements for Approval of Local Budgets

- By law, districts are required to adopt an annual budget and financial report that shows proposed expenditures and estimated revenues.
- These dates were adjusted to reflect current conditions (Executive Order: 2020-06)

Critical to California's COVID-19 Response

- The California Community Colleges system has proven critical to the state's fight against COVID-19 – from training first responders to donating desperately needed medical supplies and equipment.
- California Community Colleges educate 70 percent of the state's nurses and 80 percent of firefighters, law enforcement personnel and emergency medical technicians. Twenty thousand first responders and health care professionals trained at a California community college enter the workforce every year.
- California's leaders should prioritize and protect funding for community colleges so that students have access to the education they need and can join the state's response to COVID-19.

Strong for California's Communities in the Recovery

- With nimble workforce education programs and quality transfer pathways, CCCs will be crucial in helping California navigate the new economy emerging through this crisis.
- Cutting funding to the California Community Colleges means a severe reduction in access, equity and success at a consequential cost to emerging generations.
- In these challenging and uncertain times, flexibility to mitigate the impact on our students will be critical.
- While the May Revision attempts to protect access, it lacks the resources needed to address the inequities that plague California's higher education systems. Instead, the challenges that low-income students, students of color and high-needs students face are just further exacerbated by compromising quality.
